The Forum is held every three years and has been taking place since 1997.

The World Water Forum is not just a conference: it includes a three-year preparation phase (preparatory phase), a one-week event (event phase), and a presentation of the results (synthesis phase) with ongoing support for collective action.

The Forum brings together participants from all levels and areas, including politics, multilateral institutions, academia, civil society and the private sector, among others. Over the years, the number of people participating in the Forum has grown from a few hundred to tens of thousands, from both the international community and host countries.

During the week of May 2024, the heads of state, the heads of international organizations, high level government officials, experts, scholars, entrepreneurs and economists from all over the world will share their knowledges, experiences, and practices regarding a wide range of topics related to water.

THEME

WATER FOR SHARED PROSPERITY

Water has always had a precious and elevated position in human cultures, as we realize that water is essential for human life since ancient times. From daily consumptions to purifications, conservations, cultivations and so on, some communities even view water as life itself and as the source of immortality.

Nowadays, water management often becomes the main issues in international events and declarations, including the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The SDGs include a dedicated water goal that must be achieved by 2030 to ensure sustainable living.

The importance of water is more specifically mentioned in the SDG number 6, Clean Water and Sanitation for all, with related and more detailed targets. In order to achieve those targets, all stakeholders need to work together and understand each other needs. Good water management can help us achieve prosperity together, and for all. Water plays central role in achieving shared prosperity. In the 10th World Water Forum, we hope that we can give the societies what they need to achieve shared prosperity through understanding and solving water related issues.
